Privacy for Android

#EnModeAdo

The privacy tab allows, among other things, to determine which applications have access to certain information or features of the phone. For example, it is possible to choose which applications have access to the microphone, the camera or even the location service.
1. Go to the phone Settings

2. Select Security and privacy

3. Click on the submenu Privacy

4. Chose the Permission manager

Examples of features to configure:

5. Determine which apps can access features like microphone, camera or location. You can choose to allow access at all time, when the application is running or remove access completely.
